What Kind of Wove

Is not enough to know that your new fall suit or overcoat is cut from an all-wool fabric. The origin of the wool itself is to be considered. The clothing made by the celebrated firm of L. Adler Bros., & Co., whose sale representative we are in Greencastle, is of the finest selected Australian and Ohio wool—the best and the most expensive in the world. Add to this choice material, the most elegant trimmings and the most expert tailors and you have the "Adler" product famous the land over as "the custom-made style at the ready made price," the label on your suit or overcoat guarantees you against loss if you find the slightest defect in the garment to which it is attached.

A Rush for Indian Maids.
Siloam Springs (Ark.) correspondence of the Kansas City Times: There is a rush in the matrimonial market over in the Cherokee Strip now. The Rev. Gordon performed the ceremony today that united three white men to as many Indian maids. The cause of all this rush is the fact that August 15 is the last date upon which qualification as a Cherokee citizen can be made, and as each dusky maid of the forest carries with her a dowry of 160 acres of Territory land, squaw men are being made very fast now. It has been the custom for white men to go into the Indian Territory and marry Indian girls, but never was there such a rush as at present among young white men for Indian wives and the accompanying 160 acres of land. To become a lawful citizen of the Indian Territory it appears that all marriages must now be made according to the Cherokee custom. To this none of the white men object.

An English Bull.
An English judge, in sentencing a prisoner, perpetrated a bull, which the New York Tribune quotes "Are you aware," said the judge, "that for these repeated breaches of the law it is in my power to sentence you to a term of penal servitude far exceeding your natural life? And what is more, I feel very much inclined to do it."

Proved a Blessing.
"I had severe pains in my head, caused by catarrh, and was confined to my bed for a long time. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It proved a great blessing. The second bottle cured me and I am now entirely well, and value Hood's Sarsaparilla very highly." JACOB STUTSMAN, Goshen, Ind.

DEAD FROM HIS INJURIES.

Fell Under Train—Died from Shock Seven Hours Later.

The saddest death that has occurred in Greencastle for a long time was that of Carl Hoffmann, which occurred last night at midnight. The boy is about fifteen years of age. At about five o'clock he with companions were in the east yards of the Big Four at this point. They had been riding on the cars that were being shifted through the yards and at the time the accident occurred, they were around a caboose which had been cut loose from the remainder of the train. It was motionless and young Hoffmann climbed up on the bumper at the end opposite the approaching engine. It appears that he did not know of the latter's approach for when it came into contact with the caboose, the boy was thrown off by the jar and fell beneath, between the rails. He attempted to crawl out and was caught by the wheels which passed over his legs. From a hasty examination it was thought that his right limb had been cut off and his left broken. He was picked up by an engine on the main line and taken to the station, where he was placed in a 'bus and taken first to Dr. Lammer's office and shortly afterwards to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hoffmann, 311 N. Indiana street.

The doctor examined the boy's injuries at the house and found it necessary to remove both limbs. The right one was taken off just below the knee and the left a short distance above. They presented a horrible appearance when their covering was cut away. The wheels of the cars had passed over a large portion of each and they were mangled almost beyond resemblance to their proper shape. It was soon seen that the shock would prove fatal, and such was the case. Death came to the lad's relief at midnight. Before being placed under the influence of anesthetic, he showed wonderful control over himself, not seeming to notice the fearful pain he must have endured. He smiled at his friends while being placed in the 'bus at the depot, and superintended the entire transaction.

The train that injured the boy was No. 65, west bound, Ed Harris conductor. While the reports of the cause of the accident differ, no one places any blame on the train men. None of them saw the accident and probably did not know that the boys were in any danger.

The Men's League.

An interesting movement full of promise has been inaugurated among the men who belong to or attend College Avenue church. The purpose is to bring the men into closer fellowship and to give them a work in the church commensurate with their talent. They will have charge, with the pastor, of the Sunday evening sermon which hereafter will be made the crowning service of the day. A printed service will be used, and the sermons will be especially directed to themes upon practical life. A large membership has already been enlisted and promises to embrace every man in the congregation. The officers elected to serve the next three months are as follows: Jonathan Birch, pres; A. O. Leckridge, vice pres; C. W. Landes, treas; Walter Cooper, secretary. In addition there are a number of important committees which are to do the real work of the league. Every member is to serve at least three months in the year on some committee.

The Attorneys Smoked.

Attorney R. P. Carpenter, who was wedded at Greencastle Wednesday, made his appearance in court this morning and did the proper thing in distributing the cigars. His colleagues at the bar in return extended the "glad hand." —Crawfordsville Argus News.

Of Interest to Teachers.

Judge S. P. Thompson, of the Newton circuit court, has decided that the school authorities have no authority to require an applicant for teachers' license to pass an examination on "Guizot's History of Civilization" or any other study not provided for by law. Alva Stinson, a teacher, passed in all the branches enumerated in the legislative enactment governing the licensing of teachers, but failed to pass in "Guizot's History of Civilization," a branch added by the State Board of Education. The decision will be of much interest to teachers generally.—Brazil Democrat.

HALLOWEEN'S COMING.

To be Saturday—All Kinds of Fun Expected.

Halloween comes this year on Sunday, the thirty-first. Everybody old enough to know anything about this annual occasion is aware that it is supposed to justify proceedings that are not perfectly suited to the Sabbath. It is likely therefore that the festivities will occur on the coming Saturday evening. Halloween will be celebrated with more or less vigor in this city. A number of parties, masquerade and other kinds are expected to occur then. The young people will probably take the evening as their own and will make the night hideous for the peacefully inclined. The city police will come to the aid of the latter class of citizens and the incautious of the youngsters will wake up in the bastille the following morning if they don't watch out.

Halloween comes on the eve or vigil of All Hallows or festival of All Saints day. As the saints have the day, the other people, those who are not saints, must celebrate on the preceding evening. In America the festivities are more or less generally recognized among the society people. Its influence is felt in the dead swell set as well as among the plebeians. The common run of folks go in for a kind of a nondescript good time.

Another Balloon Ascension.

The homeliest old bachelor present will receive as a premium a grubbing hoe. Joe Baker and Cam Peck barred from the contest. XX

BEAUTIFUL GREENCASTLE.

Many Additions and Improvements During the Past Season.

Many and varied are the complaints made concerning Greencastle's lack of enterprise. "There is no business push—there is no patronage for business enterprises here," are sentences that are more frequently heard hereabout than any others. In a modified form this is true enough; there is no boom here; there is no bluster and bluff and guff about increase of population and business interests, but there is a steady, healthy and substantial growth that is better than any kind of a boom could be. We have the prettiest, cleanest little city to be found anywhere on the face of the earth; this allegation needs no proof, we admit it. No better evidence can be adduced to show that Greencastle is a most desirable place to live than the number of residences that have been built here during the summer, while those that have been remodelled and repaired point to the fact that their owners are well pleased with their location in the world.

Among the houses built in the spring and early summer are two neat cottages on south Indiana street near the foot of Ohio, the property of Philander Pruitt and William Detro. At the foot of Bloomington street on Washington, Andrew Nelson has erected a handsome and substantial two-story dwelling. On the corner of Hill and Jackson streets are two houses, one of which is almost finished and the other is going up rapidly, built by W. T. Scott and Eli Pruitt. At the South End, fronting east on Broadway, Julius Sudranski has put up a new business building which greatly adds to the appearance of that vicinity.

Henry Miles, colored, has built him a neat cottage home on the corner of Crown and Howard streets. Commissioner James E. Talbott has remodelled his home on the corner of Crown and Elm streets in a manner that amounts almost to a re-building. Granville and Henry Peck, together with their sister, Miss Hattie, are building a substantial eleven room dwelling at the corner of Seminary and Locust streets and will make their home in town when finished. R. L. O'Hair has refinished his house throughout and has changed the interior arrangement quite a little. The most extensive improvements are being made by Frank Ader, in preparing for his own occupancy the Hartley home, which he purchased some months since. The house has been thoroughly renovated and repaired and several changes have been made. The two front parlors and the back parlor have been connected by arches and the spacious entrance hall, where a new staircase has been built, opens into the north parlor and the library in a similar manner. The dining room has been refitted and refinished and a breakfast room has been added. At the north front a porte cochere has been built to allow entrance to and from conveyances without exposure to the weather. The second floor remains much the same as formerly with the exception of a few repairs and the addition of a bath room. Plate glass windows will replace those now in use and the exterior finish of the house will be a delicate cream color.

It is the intention of Evangelist Walker to build a home for his family on south Indiana street, near the old Sellers property, and if possible it will be completed before winter closes in. The grading and macadamizing of south Indiana street, from Hanna street to the city limits, is probably the greatest improvement that we have experienced in several years. Brick sidewalks and stone gutters have been laid down the entire length of this section of the street for half mile. But so inviting has this route been to travel to and from the south that during the hot, dry weather that the top dressing has been cut through and deep ruts have been cut from one end to the other of the improved portion. It should be immediately re-surfaced and rolled to secure it from further damage during the winter and spring.

The new Monon station will fill another long felt want; it will be finished as soon as possible; no one being more anxious for its completion than the officials of the company. The Big Four station is being repaired and painted this week. A belt has been put around the building at a height of three feet and above this the color is a bright orange while below it is a dark red. All trimmings are white and the openings are finished in black and olive. Two new signs bearing the station name and distances will be added. At the first opportunity, "get awake," as the Pennsylvanians say, and take a look around the town. You will find it a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

County Sunday School Convention.

The Putnam county Sunday School convention was held at Bainbridge yesterday. Owing to the absence of the township president the convention had not been carefully advertised nor provided for. Nevertheless under the efficient management of Mr. Lockridge former county president, and others, the "How" program, which was intended to be one of marked system and punctuality, was almost realized. At 10 o'clock the convention was formally opened and after "Welcome" and "Response," Rev. W. H. Wise spoke on "Sunday School Weak Points and How to Strengthen Them." Reports were heard from townships, and with one more subject, "How the Work is Progressing in our State," by C. D. Meigs, state Sunday school superintendent, the morning session closed.

After devotional exercises conducted by Rev. U. G. Leazenby, the afternoon session began and proceeded with increased interest. The house was well filled; Mrs. Farr sang two special selections. Five subjects were treated by five people, namely: "Teachers meetings, Do we need Them?" C. D. Meigs; Mrs. Ogg, on "Rally Day," and Mrs. Frailey on "Object Lesson Teaching." Committees reported on resolutions and nominations. Mr. W. B. Donald was elected president for next year. The newly elected officers were installed by Prof. Ogg and C. D. Meigs. Mr. Burlingame arrived before the afternoon session closed and conducted a song service in the evening. The state superintendent again spoke in the evening and with collection for county apportionment, the convention closed. All doubtless left the convention with one mind, that is, that they had learned much, both from their successes and failures and that this county is unusual and difficult to manage with the highest success, three churches in this county positively refusing to allow a Sunday school. Let every school help give this county better standing.

Accidents speak louder than words, yet their voice is not heard by the average boy who insists on fooling around freight trains. Who will be the next boy to forget the warning and sacrifice his life to demonstrate his independence of advice?

There were 255 persons killed on Indiana railroads during the year ending July 1, 1897. Of these eight were passengers, sixty-three were employees and one hundred and fifty-two were tramps stealing rides or persons who got on the track in front of trains.

At the regular monthly meeting of the trustees of the Sun Printing and Publishing Association held in New York on Tuesday afternoon, Paul Dana was unanimously elected president of the association and editor of the Sun to succeed his father, Charles A. Dana, deceased.

Washington Letter.

Washington, Oct. 25, 1897.

President McKinley will not begin the work of writing his annual message to congress until after he returns from Ohio, where he will go the last of this week, to remain until he casts his vote for the republican ticket, but he is spending considerable time just now in obtaining information from members of the cabinet and in discussing with them matters that will be treated in the message. All of the members of the cabinet have furnished him with the substance of their annual reports, none of which are yet completed.

The administration is not devoting any time to the consideration of the answer of the new Spanish ministry to Minister Woodford's proposition, the full text of which is now on its way to Washington, because the substance of it has been known for sometime and it has been fully determined to grant the new Spanish ministry a reasonable time in which to try to put its new policy into effect in Cuba. The only thing that may change this programme is the manner in which the Spanish reply deals with the efforts which have been made by this government to prevent the departure of filibustering parties for Cuba. If the tone of the answer is what Spanish publications have indicated it to be, it will be promptly resented by the administration. More than $2,000,000 has been spent by this government in efforts to prevent filibustering and to live up to its international obligations to Spain, and no intimation that this government has been negligent will be tolerated from Spain. It is thought that such talk appeared in the Spanish papers solely for its effect at home, and that nothing of the sort will be found in the official communication.

Secretary Alger will attend the meeting of the Army of the Tennessee on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, at Milwaukee. He left Washington today.

When a really good idea is made known the average person of intelligence wonders why it had not been thought of before. An idea of that kind was laid before the cabinet by Secretary Gage, and at once met with general approval. The government issues three kinds of paper money, and the notes of each denomination of each series have different designs, which are not only confusing, but which are taken advantage of by that class of swindlers who make a practice of raising notes and passing them in crowded places or upon ignorant and unsuspecting persons. Secretary Gage's idea is to adopt one design for all the notes of the same value of the three kinds of notes issued, and to make that design so simple and distinctive that it will be impossible to mistake a one dollar note for a ten or a two for a twenty, etc. The change, which will probably be put into effect as soon as the necessary plates can be prepared, will be welcomed by the handlers of money in banks and business establishments, to whom the pictorial silver certificates now in use are a source of much worry.

W. F. M. SOCIETY.

District Convention Held in College Avenue Church.

The district meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of Greencastle district, northwest Indiana conference, which has been in session for two days in College Avenue church, held its closing meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was full of interest throughout, due in a large part to the presence of Mrs. McKinsey, the conference secretary, who is the embodiment of missionary knowledge and enthusiasm—and an unusually large number of visiting delegates. There are fifteen auxiliaries in the district, which with the exception of three, were represented by two or more delegates, making in all an attendance of thirty-seven from outside the city. Tuesday afternoon was devoted the usual courtesies of such an occasion, Mrs. Town in a very happy manner welcoming the ladies to our hospitality, to which Mrs. Hise, of Clinton, responded, and to the reading of reports. These showed a very healthful condition of the work over the district. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Davis, confirmed this account a little later in her statistical report showing an increase of membership and of $215 over last year.

The address of Dr. Marie Haslep on Tuesday evening was an epitome of Chinese manners and customs, compiled during her residence of several years in China as a hospital physician. She is a very pleasing speaker and wore the Chinese costume. The Workers' hour led by Mrs. McKinsey, was characterized by great earnestness. At this time the practical questions were brought forward and discussed in a way calculated to be of permanent benefit to the workers. The symposium on What constitutes a Successful Missionary Meeting participated in by a number of the ladies, was also designed to supplement the practical needs of the auxiliaries.

Each session was prefaced by a devotional hour and musical numbers so interspersed as to brighten the meetings. On Wednesday at noon Rev. Farr led in prayer for temperance.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the choice of Mrs. Ogg, president; Mrs. Landes, first vice president; Mrs. Carver, second vice; Mrs. Davis, third vice; Mrs. Meacham, cor sec; Mrs. Hise, rec. sec; Mrs. Stallard, treas; Miss Clearwaters, supt. of young people work; Mrs. Diall, delegate to branch meeting; Mrs. Griner, reserve delegate to branch meeting.

Clinton, Ind., was chosen as the next place of meeting. Convention closed with the singing of the doxology.

State Guilty of Murder.

So says George W. Norman, coronor of Gibson county. Among other things he says: "Every man who voted for the maintenance of the licensed saloon in the state of Indiana is guilty of murder." The statement was a part of a verdict given recently concerning the cause of the death of a man who had been killed by a train while drunk. He says the man was strong physically but not able to withstand the temptations of the saloon, which temptation was set before him by the "greed of the city and forced upon him by the law making power of Indiana."

North Mission Temperance Work.

Rev. W. W. Whitcomb, pastor of the Baptist church, made a temperance address at the North Mission Wednesday. Without a dissenting voice the following resolution was adopted: Whereas, the curse of strong drink and especially the cigarette habit now so atrociously common, seriously threaten the physical, intellectual and moral deterioration of our boys and young men, therefore resolved, that parents, preachers, teachers and good citizens generally, should at once unite in one prolonged, relentless endeavor to stamp out by speech, prayer and vote, evils so widespread and appalling.

COMMON COUNCIL.

Various Matters of Interest Acted Upon.

Council met a few minutes late Tuesday eve, with one member absent, but he came in within a short time. But they were destined to further delay on account of the progress of a foot ball game in the frat room above the council chamber. The ceiling was beginning to crack when His Honor slid upstairs and ruled out the entire foot ball team.

The street committee reported that the petition made by Mr. Cooper and Mr. Wolfe that their lots be protected from the drainage from the new street by a sewer had been decided adversely to the gentlemen.

The light committee reported that they had not yet decided upon the number and location of the proposed new lamps and asked for further time for the matter. In connection with the committee's report, the remaining members of the council turned in a general kick on the lighting the city has been receiving lately. A large number of lamps have been reported as not burning for an extended period. A motion was made and adopted that the light committee be instructed to interview the Electric Light company and state to them the condition of affairs and come to an understanding as to the quality of the service in the future.

It was moved and adopted that the city engineer be instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of sidewalks on Arlington street.

The city engineer created great commotion by displaying a six foot report which the gentlemen of the council thought was to be read. The paper was the first and final estimate of the assessment of costs in the improvement of Indiana street, and the reading was put off by the engineer stating the nature of the report, which was referred to the street committee for proper action.

Arbor Day.

The Governor of Indiana has issued a proclamation naming Friday, October 29, as Arbor day. He makes many valuable suggestions as to the need of the observance of the occasion, which are especially good, coming as they do from a farmer, a man who knows better than any other the usefulness of abundant forests and orchards throughout the country. Arbor day has been observed heretofore in the public schools by special exercises and it is hoped that the same will be true of this anniversary. Superintendent Geeting says it is a day not only for beautifying schools and school grounds, but a day when all patrons should attend the schools; it should be a rallying day as well as a holiday.

SHOT AT AND MISSED.

Two Men Try to Hold up Omer Wimmer at the West Bridge Wednesday Night.

Omer Wimmer had a narrow escape from being robbed Wednesday night as he went home from the city. He was riding a young and spirited horse and as he entered the west bridge over Walnut at about 11:30 a man sprang out from the shadow, snatching at the horse's bridle and crying "Halt!" The colt shied and eluded the robber's grasp, while Omer ducked his head and urged the horse forward to the top of his speed. Three shots were fired, one striking the horse's hoof and skelping it slightly; the other two flew close over the boy's head. He says that he thinks he saw two men but that, owing to the dark night, he would not be able to describe them or identify them.

Deaths.

An infant of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Scott, of South Greencastle, died Wednesday from stomach trouble. The funeral occurred Thursday.

Elder Vancleave died at Crawfordsville Monday night. He was an aged minister of the Baptist church and had relatives in this city.

A six months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Randel, of Brick Chapel, died Wednesday. The funeral was that afternoon at four o'clock at Brick Chapel.

At Stilesville Tuesday occurred the death of O. P. Boyd, at the age of 52 years. Death was due to paresis, after a long period of ill health. Mr. Boyd was a member of the Masonic organization and was also a veteran of the late civil war. The burial was at ten o'clock Wednesday, two miles south of Stilesville.

On Tuesday, at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Cass Broad street, of Broad Park, occurred the death of Mrs. Mary Bowman. The deceased was 81 years of age and has two children living, John Bowman, of Fillmore, and Mrs. Wm. Denny, living east of the city. Death was due to pneumonia. The interment was at Fillmore at 10:30 Wednesday forenoon.

We Have a Good Team.

The local foot ball team has been practising steadily since its organization and is showing fine form for tomorrow's game with Crawfordsville. The personnel of the team is practically the same as that of the the two past years; each member is a foot ball enthusiast who puts his whole mind and body into the game. The association is well pleased with the support it has received from the business men and if the game is as well patronized as athletic exhibitions usually are here, there can hardly be cause for complaint. The game tomorrow afternoon will be the only contest that will give an opportunity of measuring our strength against that of our friends on the north. Every one who can possibly get out to the field should be there to encourage the home team. The boys are anxious to treat the visitors with all possible courtesy and make them feel that they are welcome and among friends.

Will parties who gave Mr. Layne checks on or near above date, which have not appeared against them at bank, please notify me and I will pay for trouble and expense.

AT LAST.

Harry Huguley to be Sent to the Insane Asylum.

At last Harry Huguley, the insane forger, is to be sent to the insane asylum. After rejecting several applications for his admission, the last on the ground that the asylum was overcrowded, the hospital authorities today wired Judge Taylor that room had been provided for his client. Huguley is now confined in jail at Greencastle and will be taken to Indianapolis at once.—Terre Haute Gazette.

The information contained in the above clipping is news in Greencastle. At the time of writing, nothing relative to Huguley has been received by either Sheriff Buntten or County Clerk Darnall. Huguley's board bill at the jail has not yet been paid, although Judge Taylor offered to relieve the county of that expense. The forger's attorneys have been moving heaven and earth to have that gentleman put in the asylum before he was canned up in a more uncomfortable place.

Niggardly Higglings.

A writer in Newspaperdom says: Newspapers get tired of being imposed upon, and sometimes plainly say so. Nothing is more wearisome perhaps, than the little bigglings of well meaning but over grasping persons and committees who are trying to make make money out of some show or entertainment for the benefit of charity or church. Niggardly methods of trying to beat down a newspaper and rob it of its just dues for the benefit of the Lord ought to be made contemptible in the eyes of even the most greedy miser. An illiberal and penurious policy toward a newspaper yields bitter fruit, both to publisher and the society or business man or town that practices it.

SPECULATIVE CONTRACTS.

Decision by the Iowa Supreme Court Affecting Grain Speculators.
DES MOINES, Oct. 23.—The Iowa supreme court has rendered an important decision affecting the legality of contracts between grain speculators. In the case of Counselman & Co. against Emanuel Reichart, the court declared that "contracts for grain where the intention is merely a speculation on the chances of the rise or fall of the market and no delivery is intended, are gambling contracts and void. It is not enough to render the contract void that the buyer intends it as a gambling contract, unless the seller participates in that intention. That is, if the defendant in ordering the purchase of oats only intended a speculation upon market values without the delivery of grain, and the plaintiff purchased the grain for actual delivery, it would not be a gambling contract. To make the contract void as between these parties the intention to make a gambling contract must be mutual." It was held by the court that the suit under discussion was one in which no delivery was intended.

ARRESTED A DEAD MAN.

Corpse Was Locked Up on a Charge of Intoxication.

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 28.—A dead man was arrested before a police sergeant the seventh street station here and committed to a cell on the charge of intoxication. The dead man, supposed to be John Collins, 48 years old, was discovered lying in what was supposed to be a drunken stupor in a hallway. The man was taken to the station, and several officers carried him to the sergeant's desk. He was brooded against the desk, and while two officers held him up another searched his pockets and thus ascertained his name. The body was placed in a casket, but two hours later the coroner surprised that his prisoner should remain so long in a comatose condition, called a doctor, who said the man had been dead three hours.

UNION PACIFIC DEAL

REORGANIZATION COMMITTEE WILL PAY THE GOVERNMENT PRICE.

Governor Brady of Alaska Makes a Report Regarding That Territory—Charles B. Harris of Goshen Appointed Counsel to Nagasaki, Japan.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Although the government officials decline either to affirm or deny the report of its acceptance of the new proposition of the reorganization committee of the Union Pacific railroad, there is no reasonable doubt of its accuracy. This proposition is understood to be an increase of the original guarantee bid of $50,000,000 to a sum sufficient to cover the full amount of the government's claim against the Union Pacific road proper, which on Oct. 1 aggregated $58,067,398. This includes the principal of the debt, which amounts to $27,235,512, and the balance of the interest paid by the United States amounting to $30,830,886. This represents the full amount of the Union Pacific's obligation to the government. The sale of this line will be proceeded with as originally intended, about Nov. 1. As to the Kansas Pacific road, the committee withdraws its guarantee and consents to a postponement of the sale to any date to suit the convenience of the government.

Motion to Postpone Withdrawn.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 27.—A telegram from Attorney General McKenna yesterday notified the attorneys for the government in the Union Pacific railway case that the sale could proceed as originally announced, arrangements having been made with the reorganization committee that guaranteed to the government its full lien on the property. By stipulation the sale of the Kansas division was set for Dec. 15, but the main line will be sold next Monday at Omaha as heretofore announced by Master Commissioner Cornish.

It says nothing about the helplessness of settlers to obtain titles to their homes in account of the failure of congress to extend the general land laws and urges congress to create a commission of five, one senator one representative and three bona fide Alaskan residents to codify laws for Alaska.

"Slogana is being built up rapidly. Lumber is in demand, and lots are selling as high as $1,500. Massachusetts only has five state tickets on its blanket ballot this fall and feels rather lonesome.

The innocent (?) crap game indulged in by the colored boy is the bait that lures him on to a life of gambling.

Let the man, woman or child, who is not guilty of trying to get something for nothing, first cast the stone at the gambler or thief.

There is no argument in favor of the government ownership of railroads in the postal deficit of $11,411,779 during the last fiscal year.

Brazil is beginning to get good, to judge from the reports in the state press. The police board met in special session yesterday and instructed the police to close every gambling house in the city. They were also ordered to strictly enforce the Nicholson law. Saloon keepers were ordered to remove their screens, to close on Sundays, at eleven o'clock during the week and at midnight on Saturday.

Senator Platt was in Washington Saturday, but he said that his visit had no special political significance. He spent half an hour with President McKinley and told him and his other Washington friends that things were looking more favorable every day for the election of Gen. Tracy to be the first Mayor of greater New York, and that he was absolutely certain he would win by a plurality of between ten and twenty thousand.

Temperance has been defined as the moderate use of all things helpful and total abstinence from all things harmful. Who can object to temperance when put in that way? Science has demonstrated, history recorded and practice confirmed the fact that the use of intoxicating drinks, even in small quantities, burns out the vital part of man and when indulged in excess leaves him a wreck physically, morally and intellectually. The distiller and the retail liquor dealer know enough of harmful effects of alcoholic drinks to let them alone personally. They are interested in others drinking for the reason that they get money out of them. Doubtless they would prefer other lines of business if they could make the same profit. Many of them loath the business and yet stay in it for the gain. It is to be hoped the rising generation, who are being taught its evil effects, will let it severely alone.

There is a strong tendency in the young man of today to gamble. Young Day, no doubt, got his first start downward through gambling. Playing with the tiger seems to be a pleasant pastime at first but it leads many a boy and man into crime.

CUBA.

An effort to reduce to any definite or satisfactory conclusion the mass of conflicting reports that continue to arrive from Madrid and Havana would be as vain as unprofitable. However, it is interesting to compare what has been done by the Great Powers for Greece and Armenia with what has been done for Cuba by anyone. In the east—where, it will be remembered, the United States, themselves, had a little finger in the pie—threats, demonstrations and ultimatums were freely used and not without effect. In Cuba, Spain has been left to work out her salvation upon any plan that seemed good to her regardless of the rights of property or even of the interests of common humanity.

Neither the recent change of ministry at Madrid nor the substitution of Blanco for Weyler can change the complexion of affairs in the island. The concession of the most complete autonomy that can be devised will not satisfy the patriots; they were deceived twenty years ago at the close of the ten years' war by what seemed to be such a concession. They are fighting now for independence and nothing but independence will pacify them.

The position of the United States in regard to Cuban affairs has been nothing other than that of semi-official rat-catcher to Spain; in the detection and arrest of filibusters the officials have far exceeded the requirements of the neutrality laws. On the other hand, the Morgan resolution, the only evidence we have that congress knows that strained relations exist between Cuba and Spain, has been shelved. There is an unfounded report that Minister Woodford has asked the Spanish ministry to fix a date for ending the war. Neither the Morgan resolutions nor the Woodford note are worth a fig as practical measures of assistance to the patriots.

What congress will do is a matter for congress to decide. What congress should do, in the name of that nineteenth century civilization, of which we are justly proud, if not in the name of the United States, should be to investigate the charges of barbarity that are daily made against the Spanish army in Cuba—charges that are given color by the exclusion from, or the surveillance of foreigners in the island and the censorship of the press. And if such an investigation should confirm these charges then the government should demand that the war be carried on in accordance with the principles of civilized warfare and should see to it that its demands are respected. This would involve official recognition that a state of war exists in Cuba, which would be equivalent to recognizing any other fact. War does exist there and war can not exist without two parties and the official recognition of either one amounts to no more than a technicality. The main point is the immediate conclusion of the war and failing that, the conducting of that war upon the most humane lines possible. This can be achieved and as the nation most vitally interested, aside from the combatants, it is the duty of the United States to see that it is done. That such a state of affairs has been allowed to continue for so long a period is a blot upon the fair page of the present century in the record of time.

ANGER AGAINST SOCIETY MEN.

Archbishop Ireland has said "Would God place in my hand a wand with which to dispel the evil of intemperance, I would strike the door of every saloon, of every distillery, of every brewery, until the accursed traffic should be wiped from the face of the earth. My anger is first against society men who have the power to stop this great evil, next against the distillers and brewers, and then the saloon keepers." It will be seen that he does not attack the saloon first. The saloon-keeper is the last man to be blamed for the evils of intemperance. When men cease to take into their stomachs that which burns up their vital tissues, dethrones reason and makes demons of them, there will be no need of talking and writing and legislating against the manufacturers and dealers in liquors. Education and christianity are working hand in hand at the source of the trouble and another generation will see a wonderful change. Many of the great railroad corporations refuse men employment who drink on or off duty. This is a great step forward. No one, not even a drunkard, wants to ride on a train manned by men under the influence of liquor. Self interest demands total abstinence from the hurtful thing. All things are working together against the evil. Men in the liquor business, who can read the signs of the times will withdraw their capital and go into other business in due time.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.

The desire to get something for nothing is a prevalent one. The idea is not confined to any time or country. It is at the bottom of much that we condemn in the world. The gambler is despised by the majority of right thinking people everywhere, yet he is but a step behind the thief and a step ahead of the man who tries to beat down the merchant. Did you ever stop to think, good people—you who sneer at the gambler and berate the thief—that you are at the bottom of the ladder and that there is only a difference in degree of criminality. The thief wants something for nothing and sneakily takes it while the owner is asleep, away from home or absent minded. He takes it without the owner's knowledge or consent. The gambler gets something for nothing in what, members of his class, call a more honorable way. He does it by contract. He does it with full knowledge and consent of the owner who would also take in the same way—by lot, or skill, or fraud. The general public composed of good, honest, honorable men and women, people who would not think of violating the law, good christian people, will huddle and dicker and jew the merchant and try to argue him out of his just profit. They want to get something that justly belongs to another for nothing. This habit of jewing is at the bottom of the whole trouble. The desire to get something for nothing is cultivated in this way. It obtains its full fruition in the gambler and thief. Why cultivate this thing? See where it ends. You beat down the merchant; he in turn, must buy cheaper of the manufacturer or producer, and he in turn must cut down the wage earner, and the wage earner must repeat the process with the merchant. There must be a bottom somewhere. Why not get out of this habit of jewing? Everybody wants to buy in the lowest market, but no one wants to sell there. The golden rule ought to hold good in all cases. Nobody seems to regard it in every day life. Nobody seems to be satisfied that he has bought low enough until the man he buys of fails in business. The merchants may have been to blame originally for asking too much for their goods and thus taking more than a legitimate profit.

The evil is wide-spread and far-reaching and the remedy is far off for the general public but near at hand to every individual. Put yourself in the other man's shoes and think how you would like to be jewed, and higgled, and beat down—and then pay the price or let it alone.

Capt. Charles O'Neill, chief of the bureau of ordinance of the navy department, is opposed to the establishment of a government plant for the making of armor plate for our fighting vessels. He says in his annual report to Secretary Long: "The bureau is of the opinion that the government can purchase armor more cheaply than it can make it. The bureau regards the making of armor as a proper adjunct to a great commercial steel plant. Foreign practice confirms this view, and even should the department acquire a plant of its own, the chances are that it would be at a great cost, and that it would lie idle a part of the time and thus suffer great deterioration, and that the expense and difficulty of operating it, when needed, would more than offset any advantages gained by such ownership."

The English statistician, Mulhall, gives the banking strength of this country at $5,150,000,000; that of England at $4,550,000,000; France, $1,340,000,000, and Germany $1,150,000,000. The fact that there is a reasonable degree of financial independence might be extracted from the above statement.

Township Not Liable.

The court of appeals puts a very different construction on the law concerning stock destroying canines as heretofore existed, and it will be of general interest to all persons owning live stock of any kind to know it. The court says that a township cannot be held liable for the value of horses, cattle and hogs that are killed or worried by dogs, and caused considerable surprise among lawyers and excites much unfavorable criticism among farmers. The act of March 5, 1891, declaring townships liable in such cases, has generally been held to be in force, and most of the townships over the state have been paying claims for the injuries to such stock, under advice from the attorney general's office.

Starling vs. Sparrow.

In many portions of the country this has been the worst year of the English sparrow nuisance, and the people of these especially infested localities and everywhere else, for that matter, will be glad to know that there is a scheme on foot to relieve their long-present trials. This is to introduce into this country the German starling. The experiment is to be first tried at Alleghany City. The starling is said to be an inveterate enemy of the sparrow and wherever the former has obtained a hold the latter is sure to disappear. The German bird persecutes the English one with the same pertinacity that the latter shows in driving away the native songsters. By next spring about two thousand of the sparrow killers will be turned loose in the Pennsylvania city.

The starling is a beautiful bird, about nine inches long, with glistening green-black feathers. One is more than a match for a dozen sparrows. Equalling his special enemy in pugnacity he excels him in strength and speed.

An Editor Grandly Spurns Office.

"No, kind but deluded friends, the mission of the hireling who holds the plough handles of this paper is to keep the fires burning on the altars of liberty and the beacon light blazing on the shores of time at $1.50 a blaze, invariably in advance. He does not hunger and thirst after official life. He did think once he would like to go to the legislature, but he has grown in grace since then and purged his system of that unholy desire. Since then he has not yearned a single yearn or hankered a hank after political distinction."—Press and Printer.

On Public Ventilation.

A Ledger reporter, in company with Mayor Reed, were shown a few hygienic facts in the office of Dr. M. T. Case Friday night. Dr. Case, as every one knows, is thoroughly at home upon matters concerning health, and his argument that public places of gathering and school rooms should never try to be ventilated by lowering the windows was practically demonstrated to the city official and the reporter.

On the floor in Dr. Case's office was a box-like structure, representing a miniature house with a glass front. Constructed with a ventilating shaft at the rear end, the roof had an opening with a slide and there were also two openings fixed in like manner near the foundation, or what would represent the lower half of a window. Two ordinary sperm candles, one on the floor of the house and the other resting on a block of wood which would elevate it about eight inches, were lighted, and all the openings and the ventilating shaft closed except the one in the roof. By breathing through a rubber tube, the man of science quickly showed the fallacy of trying to ventilate a crowded room by lowering the windows. In less than five minutes the candle on the floor was extinguished, and the other was only kept from going out by the opening of the lower vents and the ventilating shaft which gave fresh air below and removed the noxious gas.

It has been claimed that the carbonic gas would diffuse through the room at all times and pass out at the window open at the top, but this theory is all knocked in the head.—Attica Ledger.

Few men in this country are better or more favorably known to the drug and medicine trade than Mr. E. J. Schall, buyer in the proprietary medicine department of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., St. Louis. He says: "My boy came home from school with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain. I dressed the wound and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm, freely; all pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism, I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." Sold by W. W. Jones.

Diseases whose names end in itis seem to multiply. Why not add to the list bilisitis, or a malady common to legislators? Its chief characteristic is an apparently uncontrollable desire to multiply bills which never get beyond the stage of reference to a committee. The approaching session of congress will doubtless see the development of some severe cases.—Youth's Companion.

An exchange says: It is funny how people discover the real importance and influence of a newspaper when they get in a scrape or do something they are ashamed of. They live for years without subscribing, and when asked to advertise say "it don't pay" but the minute they get into a scrape they rush to a newspaper and request them not to say anything about it. Or, in case of trouble, in which their names happen to be mentioned, they realize immediately that the paper has a circulation and they do not want their name spread all over creation.

Twelve couples were present. The rooms were prettily decorated with the club colors which were almost outshone by the costumes of the maskers. Here is what old Peter Cooper, who died worth millions, said about advertising: "In all towns where the newspaper is published, every man should advertise in it, if nothing more than a card, stating his name and the business he is engaged in. I have the largest stock of boots in the county, probably more than any [two other stores. From a good, honestly made split boot to the best grade of French kip. If you want boots of any quality it will pay you well to get them of me. I buy no ready made boots but have them all made and honestly made. You pay no jobbers profits when you buy of me. If your boy needs a good pair of boots but you don't want him to have them on account of the looks get him a pair of our heavy calf school shoes. Frank Martin, who resides on Locust street near the corner of Hanna, was kicked and severely injured by a horse yesterday morning.

The Intermediate League of College Avenue church had a very pleasant social last evening at the residence of Miss Jennie Alexander.

The Gentlemen's Literary club met with H. H. Mathias last night. Rev. M. A. Farr read the paper of the evening on Wendell Phillips. The paper was a masterly presentation of the great orator and the discussion that followed was of more than usual interest.

Parke County Journal: Waveland does not take kindly to saloons. Several years ago a "joint" run there by a whiteman citizen of Rockville was looted and burned, the proprietor himself narrowly escaped violence. Last week a similar place recently vacated by Ed Wall was burned, evidently by incendiaries, and it was only by hard work that the lively stable and other buildings were saved.

W. C. T. U. Notes.

A most interesting meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in College Avenue church yesterday afternoon.

A pleasing feature of the program was an informal discussion led by Mrs. Tobias and Mrs. Hays on the Encouragements and Discouragements of Temperance Work. The encouragement side won the day and could not but do so after various ladies had told of the successes achieved by the union in the past, and of its outlook for the coming year. The discussion was appropriately followed by a duet "Deliverance," sung by Mrs. Cadwell and Mrs. Thackery. The "Temperance Question in Kansas" was handled in an able and interesting manner in a paper read by Mrs. Thackery. A duet from the White Ribbon Hymnal was sung by Miss Huron and Mrs. Thackery. The bi-monthly reports of officers show that the work of the organization is steadily progressing, but there is much to be done and the workers are few.

A NOTABLE INVENTION.

Greencastle's Fire Chief Secures Place Among Inventors.

Probably the most valuable invention for the use of railroads that has been produced for some time is one gotten by James Merryweather, chief of the fire department of this city. It has been patented under the name of "Couplings for Electrical Circuit on Railroad Trains." A Banner Times reporter called upon Mr. Merryweather and examined the clever appliance which will surely fill a long felt want in railroad equipment. Experiments have been conducted for a long time along the same lines but before this nothing has been pronounced practical by men familiar with the requirements of such appliances. This last one has been examined by a large number of experienced train men and has been pronounced a complete and valuable addition to a train's equipment.

The patent on the device was secured for Mr. Merryweather by an Indianapolis firm of patent attorneys. They notified him on Sunday of the granting of the patent papers by the authorities and stated that the business had been completed in an unusually short time, only two weeks having been required. Associated with the inventor in the business are H. H. Hillis and Arthur Throop. A working model of the arrangement will be constructed immediately and estimates of the cost of manufacture and of equipment will be made. It will then be placed upon the market.

At the last meeting of the Priscillian society Mrs. C. A. Martin read a paper on Sociology and Prof. F. S. Ditto gave his first lecture on Scripture History to the society.

Book Notice.

"Words of Comfort" is the title of a very creditable compilation of Bible lessons with poetic parallels by Wesley Lee Walls, formerly of this city, but now of Logansport, Ind. Mr. Walls will be remembered by many of our citizens as a "typo," having learned his trade in the Press office under the tutelage of Howard Briggs. He is now on a visit to his sister, Mrs. James A. Hill, in this city, and we regret to add is in poor health. The object of the book is best expressed by its author in the preface, to lift up the fallen, comfort those who mourn, and wipe bitter tears from the eyes of those who weep, thus giving renewed strength to fight life's battles. Both in its text and context the compilation will be especially prized by every christian reader. The poetic parallels are nearly all taken from standard authors, but are supplemented in some instances by the author's own lines. It is published by Wilson, Humphreys & Co., Logansport, who will furnish it post-paid on receipt of 50 cents.

BIRDS OF THE POLAR SEAS.

From Nansen's Speech Before the Royal Geographical Society.On the spot where we spent our last winter we did not see a single Ross' gull, while on these islands, not many miles to the northwest, it is quite a common bird, almost as common as the ivory gull and the kittiwake. That was the reason that led me to believe that the Ross' gull was actually breeding there. It may breed on the rocks on the beach, like the ivory gull, or perhaps on the ice; nobody knows. Of course it is not probable that these islands there are but few rocks. As the president remarked, we saw little auks in the north, but we saw more dovekies. As far north as we went in the Fram we saw birds in the summer time. It is extraordinary how far birds will fly away from land. In June and July, 1895, to the north of Franz Josef Land we could see flocks of little auks and dovekies coming from the south and then returning to the south
again. We understood that these birds came from some land, and wished we could follow them; but we had to travel for weeks and weeks before we came to that land, which they probably reached in a few hours; and when settled for the winter in Franz Josef Land we saw in the spring the birds (little auks and dovekies) steer away out to sea; we could see no water, but they went straight out and returned after twenty-four hours. The birds we saw on board the Fram were mostly ivory gulls and other gulls, dovekies, kittiwakes, Ross' gulls, mallemocks, scur-res and a few little auks. These birds do not prove that there was any land in the neighborhood, as I think they may be expected wherever there are water lanes, because there they find plenty of food—small crustaceans. The birds we shot were almost full of shrimps and small crustaceans. I believe these birds fly across the polar sea somewhere.

KING OF SIAM.

Why He Brought His Brothers With Him.The King of Siam might give lessons
in politeness to some European poten-tates, says London Truth. We expected to see an umbrella or a parasol in a corner of his carriage, not to hide him from the sun, but from the gaze of the bystanders. Instead of this he went about unshaded. Do you not think it unparadoxically rude when ladies have stood five or six hours to see an august personage only to be shown a parasol or umbrella? The King of Siam has a singularly winning smile and manner. He is free from all tincture of self-consciousness, and can say smart things. One of his sayings was very original in its significance.
The brother next in rank to him is his foreign minister. There is nobody to replace him at Bangkok; at any rate,
for the transaction of great affairs.
When, therefore, the king was pressed by M. Hanotaux to make some concession to France, he asked how could he,
he and his foreign minister were too long absent to be well up in current affairs. "But why, then, did you bring your brother to Europe?" asked the minister. "For a very good reason.
Had I left him behind I should on my return have found him on my throne."
"Why not have left, then, as foreign minister your other brother who is with you?" "For a stronger reason.
He is both ambitious and ferocious.
The eldest would not have beheld me
if I went back, but the second might."

A Mohammedan Blunder.

"At the out-station of H—, Mr. J.
S—, an old and respected tea-planter, was church warden, and had charge of the church and the arrangements for service. To his old bearer had been committed for years the task of preparing the holy table for the Lord's supper. Mr. J. S— was on the occasion in question absent from the station on leave, and his place was supplied by a planter not so conversant with church matters. Accordingly, having received notice of the chaplain's intended visit, he ordered his bearer (a very unecclesiastical person, as it turned out) to prepare the church for the padre sahib. Pir Buksh had no idea what to do, and therefore went to a brother Mohammedan to consult with him on the subject. Both of them had heard that on these occasions a clean white cloth was spread on the table with bread and wine. This suggested the whole arrangement. Imagine, then, the vexation of the chaplain and church
warden and surprise and probably amusement of the congregation to find knives, forks, plates and cold chicken,
as well as bread and wine—"Indian Gup," by J. R. Baldwin.

A Great Time for Discoveries.

Thomas A. Edison was asked the other day what he thought of those Chicago men who claim to be manufacturing gold from the baser metals.The inventor did not reply categori-cally to the question, but he smiled significantly and picked up from his desk
a cablegram which had just been received from Italy. The dispatch read:
"To Edison, Orange, N. J.: Have invented perpetual motion. Will you help me perfect it?" "You will notice," he said, with a far away look, "that a great many remarkable discoveries are being made this year."

Quiet Missionary Work.

Literary Critic (laying down a new book)—I wish every maid, wife and mother in the country could read that book. Able Editor—Well, run in a line to the effect that that book is one which no woman should be allowed to see.

No Wonder.

Irate Customer—This chicken is quite cold. Polite Waiter—What else could monsieur expect? The poor bird has been dead three weeks.

VEALY COURTSIPS.

Why Minors Should Not Be Allowed to Rent Postoffice Boxes.It has been properly decided that minors cannot rent letter boxes in the postoffices, says the Brooklyn Eagle.
A general order from Washington has gone forth to that effect. The reason given for this action is that the government does not wish to be a party to the secret correspondence of callow youths and maidens that might be carried on in the safety of a letter box.
Several cases of harm have been reported as a result of such correspondence. The postmaster can hardly contract with a minor in any case unless the latter has the sanction of his parents, and certainly the office cannot afford to lend itself to any scheme for the advancement of love affairs between the designing youth and silly girls. There is too much of this vealy courtship in evidence as it is. Too many youngsters of school age are allowed to parade the streets at night, to make acquaintances that cannot result to the advantage of anybody and to acquire troubles that one is not easily freed from. It is well for boys and girls to associate together, but it should be in the open freedom of the home, the playground and the school rather than in the streets. And parents need to discourage the idea of forwardness in the girls and impudence in the boys. Many youngsters who are still in knickerbockers conceive that they have arrived at discretionary years when they can tramp the side, walks unattended, smoke fetid cigarettes and address insulting remarks to girls and young women whom they pass. They are a nuisance and they require not merely a restraint of postal privileges, but the warm parental hand.

A GOOD WINE YEAR.

The Wine Crop Larger Than for Two Years.Reports from California indicate that the wine crop which is now being harvested will be large, but as it is being judged by that of last year and the year preceding, when the crops were unusually small, the vintage of 1897
is likely to be overestimated. Dealers in California wine believe that the good crop may have an effect on the prices of wine, but the best-informed men in the trade laugh at the idea of a good wine crop in California having any effect on the European wine market. It is believed by many people that much California wine is sent to Europe, and is bottled there and returned to this country as French or German product; but according to what a noted expert recently said on the subject there is little or no foundation for the belief. "Considerable quantities of our wine go abroad every year," he said, "but not to be reshipped as something else. About three thousand barrels go to England every year. The wine is bottled there and sold as California wine. Bremen and Hamburg also receive and bottle
California wines, and some of our California product also goes abroad to wine merchants who use it for blending or mixing purposes, but all this talk about our wines frequently making two trips
across the ocean is wrong."

Made by Mrs. Andrew Jackson.

From the Nashville Banner: Edward Dawson, of Cincinnati, has a rare relic, which he values very highly. It is a suit of clothing, "homespun," made by Mrs. Andrew Jackson for his grandfather, the Hon. Moses Dawson, a staunch democrat, and a warm friend of Gen. Jackson. Mr. Dawson frequently visited the Hermitage. On one of his visits to Gen. Jackson Mr. Dawson admired a suit of clothing of homespun cloth that Gen. Jackson wore. "They are the result of home industry," remarked Gen. Jackson, "and Mrs. Jackson made them. I have no doubt she will make you a suit." Mrs. Jackson made the suit while Mr. Dawson was her guest. On his return Mr. Dawson spent several days in Nashville, where he contracted a cold. After he returned home he, desirous of exhibiting his suit,
attended several Democratic meetings,
and wore the clothing. He neglected his cold, and it grew worse and developed into pneumonia, and he died shortly afterward.

Mrs. Rorer's Cafe Parfait.

In making cafe parfait the cream
may be flavored with chocolate, vanilla or strawberry, the parfait taking the name of the flavoring. Use good, thick cream, very cold; add to it half a pound of powdered sugar, and a gill
of black coffee; mix thoroughly; stand the basin in a pan of cracked ice, and with a wire egg-beater beat to a froth.
This will take about five minutes. Put the mixture into a mould, put on the lid, cover the joint with a piece of waxed paper; pack it in coarse salt
and ice, and stand aside for two hours.
Or it may be packed in the freezer and served in tumblers.—Mrs. S. T. Rorer in Ladies' Home Journal.

Sweet Revenge.

The Bride (after passing through the tunnel)—Edward, some one kissed me on my right cheek just as you kissed me on the left. The Groom—
Well, just tell me whom you suspected I'll— The Bride—Thrush him!
The Groom—No—I'll just tell him
we're married.

Her Chief Recommendation.

Mrs. Avne—Have you ever had a really good maid? Mrs. Hyllife—Oh, yes, one. I couldn't have had a better. Mrs. Avne—Have you still got her? Mrs. Hyllife—Oh, no, she ran off with my husband.

Distinctions.

Perdita—My fiancée is no spring
chicken. Penelope—Mine is a dug.

"I can't see how any family lives without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says J. R. Adams, a well known druggist of Geneva, Ala., in a letter inquiring the price of a dozen bottles, that he might not only have it for use in his own family, but supply it to his neighbors. The reason some people get along without it, is because they do not know its value, and what a vast amount of suffering it will save. Wherever it becomes known and used, it is recognized as a necessity, for it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. For sale by W. W. Merit

Made and Merit Maintains the confidence of the people in Hood's Sarsaparilla. If a medicine cures you when sick; if it makes wonderful cures everywhere, then beyond all question that medicine possesses merit.

Made

That is just the truth about Hood's Sarsaparilla. We know it possesses merit because it cures, not once or twice or a hundred times, but in thousands and thousands of cases. We know it cures, absolutely, permanently, when all others fail to do any good whatever. We repeat

ADVICE TO THE W. C. T. U.

Physical Culture Lecturer Endorses Paine's Celery Compound.

Miss Lucy H. Hitchcock, lecturer, department of physical culture, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Vermont, wrote on May 16, last:

"It affords me pleasure to add my testimony with others regarding the healing effects of Paine's celery compound upon an exhausted nervous system."

Aug. 12, 1897, she wrote: "As a rule I do not endorse medicines, but I believe Paine's celery compound to be of a different order from the ordinary medicines. Facts cannot be disputed. I have derived so much benefit from the compound that I am glad to heartily recommend it, hoping others similarly afflicted may be relieved. Any medicine that will relieve suffering humanity is a blessing to the world."

A blessing to the world! Paine's celery compound has been proven to be the one great remedy that really makes people well. This estimable woman, whose Christian work is earnestly directed toward the betterment of others, and whose eminence in the W. C. T. U. makes her advice of great value, plainly indorses Paine's celery compound.

The amount of poor health on every hand is something shocking to everyone who stops to think. Hundreds of men and women in every neighborhood are today carrying about with them a needless load of ailments that a thorough refreshing of their nerves, a purifying of their blood, more sleep and more regularity in the bodily functions would completely do away with. Paine's celery compound will do all this for sick and ailing men and women.

The little ills, the beginning of neuralgia and rheumatism, the "all-gone" and tired feelings show the immediate need of purifying the blood and refreshing the nerves. The direct and energetic way Paine's celery compound overcomes sick and nervous headaches, dyspepsia and heart troubles, as it does all other nervous disorders, has compelled the admiration of the medical world from the start.

Headaches, rheumatism; neuralgia, lifeless feelings, and debility cannot persist when intelligently met and corrected by this greatest of nerve and brain strengtheners. No remedy ever kept the confidence of so large a body of inquiring men and women.

A "hear-say" reputation may do for other remedies; Paine's celery compound is best known from the mouths of men and women whom it has made well—they are in every city, town and village in the country.

No one can pass the newspaper bulletins without being reminded by how slight a thread the best of men hold on to life. The slight ups and downs in health from which people recover make them forget that there is a limit to the body's elasticity and endurance. The habitually exhausted nervous system at last loses its power of recovery and offers no resistance to disease.

"Prevent disease," is the watchword of the best medical thought of today. Careful men and women do not wait until they are flat on their backs as people once did. The more intelligent part of every community has found out the inestimable benefit to be derived from Paine's celery compound, when one is worn-out, nerve-tired and "out of sorts."

THE NEW GOLD FIELD.

Facts About the Climate and Mosquitoes of Alaska.

Ordinary woollen clothing for the body and leather boots for the feet are of course utterly unsuitable and can be worn only at serious risk when traveling, says the Forum. Indian snowshoes are essential; the Norwegian variety proved worthless. As the season advances the snow settles and at night a firm crust forms. The most favorable months for traveling are March and April. The midwinter days are short, with sunlight in some latitudes from 10 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon. When necessary one can travel fairly well by starlight and moonlight over the snowy tundra, but not in the woods. In May the snow is wet and heavy and travel difficult. Pools of water and the first mosquitoes then begin to appear. By May 20 the river bursts its bonds of ice and floods the lowlands; ice, debris and broken timber pouring, with a grinding noise, heading toward the sea. For at least a week navigation is impossible. Summer, swift footed, trips upon the heels of winter. The sun pours down with a violence not soon forgotten, though in the shade it is always cool. The cry of the brant, northward bound, is continually heard, and myriads of smaller waterfowl appear on every hand. All the minor forms of life, native to the region or migrants from the south, with startling suddenness people the coasts and pervade the air. Vegetation springs into leaf and flower at a bound and with hardly a hint of spring summer is upon us. Mosquitoes, the pest of the north, appear in clouds. Except in midstream, or where a brisk breeze is blowing, life without a net and leather gloves is misery. The Indians smear their faces with a mixture of grease and charcoal and paddle with a smudge on a square of turf in the bows of their birch canoes. The caribou, moose and bear, driven from the thickets, plunge into the river for temporary respite. Curiously enough, during three summers, black flies and midges, so plentiful to the eastward, were only encountered on the Yukon. The records show that the lower Yukon valley has a summer temperature much in excess of that normal to the latitude. As the days are long, the traveler will prudently sleep at noon and utilize for his work the cooler hours when the sun sweeps low along the northern horizon and the mosquitoes are less active. Frosts appear in mid-September. Early in October the Yukon begins to be covered with ice, though it is not fully icebound until late in November. So the round is completed.

What do the Children Drink?
Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more GRAIN-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about 1/4 as much. All grocers sell it. 1 lb. and 2 lb.

Too Lovely for Anything.
Ella—I don't like St. Louis at all. I was there for a whole week last summer and never saw a single attractive thing. Jack—That's strange. I didn't know there was a looking-glass faming in that village.

Beard Growing in Rome.
Among the Roman women at one period there was a morbid ambition to grow beards, and they used to shave their faces and smear them with unguents to produce these inappropriate appendages. Cicero tells us that at one time to such an extent did the mania for beards grow upon women that it was found desirable to pass a law against the "adornment."

Same Old Dog.
Little Willie—"Say, ma, have they got a dog over at Deacon Smith's?" Mamma—"No, dear; not that I know of; but why do you ask?" Little Willie—"Because when I was over there yesterday, I heard Mrs. Smith tell the cook to chase the growler as soon as the coast was clear."

Floored at Last.
"What is it that worries Gritley's mind so? He worked new problems as fast as they came out, solved the pigs in clover, the fifteen puzzle and everything else."

"He's just about crazy trying to master the tariff schedule."—Detroit Free Press.

CARRYING THE UMBRELLA.

Conclusive Opinions Formed by Your Fashion of Doing It.

Two men who sat near the window of a hotel in a great city a few days ago while waiting the time by watching the women go by and commenting on their umbrellas.

The storm had abated about an hour before, and the sun had peered through a rift in the clouds, but, for all that, the first pedestrian went stalking past with her umbrella still held aloft.

"That woman," said one of the men, "is as patient as Job. She is not a student absent-mindedly poring over book lore, but a housekeeper, who is so taken up with thoughts of what she is going to get for supper that she doesn't know it has stopped raining."

What is more, she is thoroughly unselfish. People who forget to lower their umbrellas when the sun begins to shine always are. That girl just behind her, who has already taken time to fold her umbrella neatly, even though it is soaking wet, is going to be an old maid.

She is narrow-minded, too. The next one has bound the folds down, but it looks uneven and bulgy. That woman's children will always look dowdy, but she will nurse them successfully through innumerable attacks of croup and rash, and no family in town will have better things to eat. That short woman, with her umbrella flopping this way and that, will always be poor, because she will give away everything as soon as she gets it. Her's isn't altogether a commendable generosity, either, for it is caused more by lack of power to say 'no' than by an inherent desire to help her fellow-creatures.

That dark woman with the tip of her umbrella trailing downward and backward at an angle of 45 degrees is malicious. I wouldn't trust her out of my sight. She'd say something mean about me the first chance she got. The one who carries her umbrella swung carelessly over her shoulder is a happy-go-lucky individual, who will always have a good time, not because she earns it, but because the world owes it to her, and she is going to have her rights."

The Causes of Corns and Bunions.
The feet are surely plant members when they can endure the variformed shoes that from time to time compel them into new habits with each new pair put on; yet they rarely rebel or give real trouble unless barbarously neglected. Corns and bunions are more often the result of wearing old shoes than in the wrong selection of new ones. A constant change of footwear lures the foot to variety, and even those who confine themselves wholly to the ready-made article need suffer no ill effects if they will keep their shoe supply as carefully replenished as is the rest of the wardrobe. It is one of the most fallacious of practices to attempt to economize by wearing old shoes about the house, unless they possess all their buttons, have straight heels and soles, and are daily brushed and aired, as are their newer fellows. Only in this way may the ankles be continually braced into straightness and the toes allowed to move gently in an almost straight direction. When the foot is thrown out of balance by worn-down heels, the toes, attempting to retain a level position, perform prehensile feats, which resemble the action of the forebears some scientists have ascribed to us. Moreover, the combined heat and moisture of the normal foot hardens the leather of the continuously worn shoe into permanent creases, which in turn render the foot extremely sensitive, and a struggling against its hard environment enlarges the joints and causes local distress.—Harper's Bazar.

Violet Perfume.
It would appear as if the cultivation of the violet for its perfume alone will shortly be numbered with the things of the past. Violet perfume is now produced by chemical means, and the result quite surpasses and surpasses, it is said, in quality and persistency, the flower itself. This latest discovery in chemistry has been made by two Germans in Leipzig, and the importance of it may be measured by the fact that many thousands of pounds have been offered for the patent. Already this substance has been sold at a considerable reduction upon the cost of the perfume made from real violets, and so intense is the odor in its concentration that the manufacturers sell only 10 per cent solutions of it. This 10 per cent solution has to be again diluted a hundredfold before it is fit for sale to the public. The perfume of violets is not, we are told, the only instance in which chemical science, as applied to perfumery has triumphed, and though some of the other chemically made perfumes are not so remarkable in their similitude to those actually extracted from flowers, they are of sufficient importance to greatly limit the use of flowers they imitate.

What Puzzled Him.
"Curious times these," commented Senator Sorgum, thoughtfully, as he looked over a facsimile of the Declaration of Independence; "very curious."

"To what do you refer?" inquired his friend.

"The manner in which these signatures command attention and respect when they were put to a paper that didn't convey any money."

If we understood each other.
How much sorrow we could save.
How much heartache, how much trouble.

Trouble deemed by us more grave
Than it would if clearer vision
To each one one were but conferred,
That we might discern the motive
Which, alone, the heart has stirred.

O, these bitter, bitter feelings
Which destroy so much in life,
Formed from small misunderstandings,
Ending oft in woeful strife!

Can we not such darkness banish
And all anger cast aside?
Would we not, then, see more clearly
Through the gloom which has defiled?

And, perhaps, beyond the shadows,
We would find a broken heart.
Basely wronged and torn and bleeding
From the wounds of many a dart.

O, I bid you, thoughtless, wonder,
Look ye well both sides, to know
If the fault is all thy neighbor's.
Ere thou givest his heart the blow.

—By Clara Metcalf, in Western Rural.

French Vessel Run by Gas Engine.
According to the Engineer, ships propelled by gas engines are apparently gaining in favor in France. A new boat of this type has recently been put in service for the Havre-Paris Rouen line, which is run by gas made on shore and stored on board under a pressure of 850 pounds in a steel holder. The engine is a two-cylinder one of 40-horse power, and the vessel is 100 feet long and draws 7 feet of water.
